

Kaleena Deshawn

People relate feeling like a zombie to waking up too early in the morning, staying up too late, just being tired, I used to agree with them, it sounded like it made sense. It's not true though, I know that now and I know what it really feels like, but I hope not to many other people actually do. Feeling like a zombie... is the moment when you realize how much you really love someone and that your never going to see them again.